We have a winning Family for the County Fair

"James and Destiny Green backed up by Dad Green. Three family members not in the photo are Evan, Valerie and (the holder of the winning ticket) Sonia (Mom) Green." Photo by Willis Fagg

For the second year, I have been given the privilege of dealing with the drawing for our raffle. The winning ticket was drawn by Peggy, a staff member of the fair. This to avoid any appearance of inpropriety. Peggy also called the phone number on the ticket and learned the winner was still on the property. Mrs. Green and her family have been there a lot as they are involved in 4-H activities including swine and rockets.

Mom Sonia expressed some interest in joining TGRS as a means of furthering the education of her children.

Thank you to all our visitors for your participation in our raffle. Also, "Thank You" to all the members who have made this raffle and this fair a great success.

MONTHLY SOCIAL LUNCHEON

The Ladies of Model Railroading (sounds like something from the front cover of a magazine) have invited us to try one of their favorite lunch spots for our next outing. Given that it will be on Wednesday the 16th of May, it makes sense that we go to Mays Counter at 2945 E. Speedway Blvd. It is easy to find, as it is only 2 blocks west of the Red Garter and on the same side of the street. They say it is a fun lunch menu and that you can get adult beverages, so what more can we ask for? Meet for lunch at 11:30.

Come Join Us! Call Chuck Cook at 977-7673 with any questions.

President's Clatter

Over the past several months I have used this column to salute the good things we do, honor some of our members who go above and beyond and stress the needs of the organization. This month I would like to focus on an effort that is accomplished year after year without much fanfare and probably goes unnoticed by a large segment of our membership.

Our modular layout, the one that sits in the two large trailers for about 11 ½ months of the year, is seldom subject to maintenance except during set-up for one of our three exhibits during the year. While we have had some work parties in the past, the problem remains that we really don't have a good location to assemble and repair the equipment other than exhibit time. That subject is an on-going discussion at the board level and someday we may find a better solution. But for now the question is; how does the layout get to look so good for our exhibits?

Certainly we have our designated set-up day ahead of each exhibit and, for those who have participated, the set-up is really a combination of (somewhat) organized chaos and on-the-fly repairs. For the VA and Home Show venues, we pretty much have one day to unload, assemble and polish the layout before it opens to the public. In those cases, most of the set-up crew will see the final product on set-up day with very little touch-up required on opening morning.

But then we have the Pima County Fair. Set-up is the usual chaotic event. But because it's a much larger layout set-up day consists of getting the track up and running, getting all the scenery modules in place and, as time permits, locating buildings. This usually makes for a long day when you add in the drive time. Then the designated set-up crew goes home and awaits opening day.

For as long as I have been participating, we have always done the set-up at the fair some number of days in advance of opening. In more recent years, basic set-up has occurred a full week before primarily due to constraints related to allowing our trailers to drive into the building to unload. This schedule allows for touch up, additional buildings and scenes to be finished at the leisure of those who have items to bring in and those do it best.

So, what happens between set-up day (when all the resources are available) and opening day when the layout is a source of pride for our organization? Certainly there is still work to be done after set-up day. Most of us accept (myself included) the fact that the magic touch of Gary, Janet, Phyllis and Dirk is necessary for that transformation. Because the set-up day consumes most of the day, it is unreasonable for this unique team to spend more hours that day working their magic.

So what's my point? This year, the magic that was necessary took another two days to accomplish and was supported only by Gary, Janet, Phyllis, Dirk and Glenn. So my point is, in the future we need to better plan the set-up so that all the extra work doesn't fall on a very few individuals (larger support crew) and more members need to learn to do what it takes to transform 180 feet of track into the layout we can all be proud of.

On the 10th of April Ken Karrels arranged for a few of us to ride on the SP/UP special train in a 1940-50 era Passenger Car and Dome Car, these are private coaches owned by Southern Pacific/Union Pacific. On the train we learned more about Operation Lifesaver.

Membership/Website: The chairman was absent; no report. According to Ruth Taylor, there are 92 member families and the roster is up to date.

Mentor: The chairman was absent; no report. Contact with the Montessori school has been made for the solar power project.

Social: The chairman was absent; no report. The luncheon event at Maynard's Market on 03/24 was apparently a great success.

OLD BUSINESS:

Norm reported that he met with the head of maintenance at TMC regarding security, upkeep and operations for the layout. He noted that some items have been stolen. Will security cameras be added? Dawn to dusk power has been set up via an electric eye. Everything is running well. Jane Dorgan has promised to contribute circus animals and people. It is understood that Marty Hart may have some circus items to contribute as well.

The Transportation Museum project equipment has been ordered and a deposit paid to Eaglewings Iron Craft.

A couple of derailments at the Diamond Children's Center were reported. Glenn is following up.

Apparently there was a call for help from Thorne at the Tucson Botanical Gardens. Glenn agreed to stop by and check.

Rails in the Garden – Glenn suggested that we look into changing the weekend for the event next year.

We need to remove items from Madeline Cook's property as soon as possible. We also still need to find work space in order to refurbish the town portion of the modular layout and the two trailers.

The volunteer recognition and incentive program was discussed at length and the Board approved the initial cost outlay and to move forward with it. It was decided that the award ceremony would coincide with the annual Christmas luncheon.

NEW BUSINESS:

A new photograph-size TGRS information card submitted by Marty Hart was proposed as a possible replacement for our trifold brochure. The Board voted to purchase the cards Marty had on hand and disperse them on a trial basis.

There is no General Meeting scheduled in April due to the staffing requirements at the Pima County Fair. The next General Meeting will be at the Somerhalders on May 19. The next Board Meeting will be May 17, 7 PM at the Ulmers.

There being no further business to come before the Board, the meeting was adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,
Gina Blackwell
